Never was the demand for Ayer's Sarsaparilla so great as during this season.

A light shower yesterday afternoon caused a delightful change in the weather.

S. A. Knapp of Hawthorne returned yesterday from California and left for his Esmeralda home.

Captain Frank Cook is still a very sick man and his condition does not seem to improve any.

Ohio farmers are feeding wheat to their hogs, which sells at about a cent a pound and pork is high.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral gives prompt relief. That's why it excels all other preparations for colds and coughs.

I. F. Hurvey, salesman for S. O. Wells, left for Truckee yesterday morning where he expects to reside.

The Truckee keeps up well and is much higher than it was a year ago. There are yet deep snow banks on the high peaks.

The New York Herald says the mid-summer exodus to Europe continues. A thousand tourists sailed on transatlantic fleet.

Dr. Thoma, who has been in poor health for several months, will take a trip to tide water next week for a change of air.

Garden hose, lawn mowers, ice cream freezers and refrigerators at cost, to close them out with the season, at Lange & Schmitt's.

The extreme sultry weather of the past few days is a not very gently reminder that the old-fashioned "dog days" are upon us.

At the present rate of attendance at the world's fair the record for the first three months will reach less than 6,750,000 admissions.

If you want a good fitting pair of boots or shoes—no scab work from strangers—go to H. F. Pavola, who is reliable and no stranger.

The veranda of C. S. Martin's building on Second street has just had placed thereon a neat and substantial railing, which is both useful and ornamental.

A St. Paul special says it is estimated that 3,000 to 4,000 idle men are there and hundreds more are arriving daily. Many are from railroads and mining regions.

W. F. Sedgwick, who left here last march for Flagstaff, Arizona, has returned with his family to resume his former position in the Western Union telegraph office.

The trade and labor council of Great Falls, Mont., has issued an appeal to workmen to keep away from that place, as the present condition of all lines of trade is deplorable and the city is overcrowded with the unemployed.

The Chronicle says it is reported that nine men were drafted at the Gould & Curry mine night before last. The men were working in the north drift jointly run by the Gould & Curry and Best & Belcher companies on the Sutro tunnel level.

Citizens on the south side of the river are anxious to have a fire cistern placed near the Lake mansion. The fire in that vicinity a few months ago which destroyed the Banta residence showed the necessity for a cistern in that neighborhood.

Last spring Carson voted to repair her public school building at an expense of ten thousand dollars, and at the same election authorized the issuance of bonds for that purpose, and now they find the bonds cannot be sold, and have decided to worry along another year in the old building.

In the district court, Judge Cheney presiding, in the case of Beck vs. Thompson, it was ordered that judgment be entered for plaintiff in the sum of $3,770, with interest from December, 1890, and that each party pay his own costs. The case involved business transacted since 1879. The suit was brought for $10,000.

John McLaughlin, fireman of the Providence mine at Nevada city, Cal., beat Charles Runge over the head with a two-pound weight and fractured his skull. This enraged the miners and after McLaughlin was released by the court on a bail of $5,000, he had to be escorted by officials to his hotel, a crowd following and shouting "hang him."

CALIFORNIA FOR SILVER.

Opinions of its Congress and Newspapers.

The San Francisco Examiner, which has generally been classed as an anti-silver paper, seems disposed at present to give both sides of the question. To ascertain on which side of the financial question the Golden State may be classed, it propounds the following to the several editors of the state, and interviewed such of its senators and representatives as were accessible:

"Should California be classed among what are popularly known as the Silver States?"

The Examiner says: "The time is most opportune for putting the query. What is popularly called the 'Silver Question' is the paramount issue at present before the nation. Congress will within a few days assemble in extraordinary session to deliberate upon it; the president and his advisers are making the consideration of it their chief concern, the advocates of a bimetallic coinage have gathered together from all parts of the country and will open to-morrow in Chicago the most formidable convention that has ever assembled in the United States for the consideration of a monetary question; bankers, merchants and farmers in every part of the union are deeply interested in the subject. It is therefore of particular interest to learn, how in the opinion of the persons best qualified to know, our state should be classed."

The preponderance of sentiment in the answers which are printed herewith is in favor of classing California among the "Silver States." The letters from a valuable contribution on the current discussion of the subject.

In addition to the letters of the state editors the Examiner presents brief interviews with such of our senators and representatives as were accessible yesterday. They are as follows:

SENATOR PERKINS.
"The great mass of the people, in my opinion, are in favor of bimetallicism. They want both gold and silver. I think they also want paper money and all on an equal basis. I believe that they want the Sherman act repealed and legislation that will put in circulation the $400,000,000 locked up in the treasury."

CONGRESSMAN E. F. LOUD.
"I do not think that California is a silver state. She has no reason to be so because of the amount of silver produced, for that is comparatively small, and in my opinion the state has no interest beyond that of other states in the silver question. I believe that the production of silver in Nevada in the past fifteen years has been a detriment to the advance of California. The amount of silver taken out of the mines has cost more to the people of the state in assessments than the amount of bullion extracted. We are simply interested, I believe, in seeing that a sound financial policy is inaugurated."

CONGRESSMAN CAMINETTI.
"A poll of the people, in my opinion, would result in a great majority for silver. I am certain that such would be the result in the district that I represent. I gather my ideas from observation and discussion with people in various sections of the state. We certainly need more money, and as silver has been used as the companion of gold it should presumably be the metal used to relieve the stringency in the money market. I believe that the Sherman act should be repealed, as it has not done anything for silver and was not calculated to benefit the white metal. Bimetallicism, I think, is the proper thing in the present condition of affairs."

CONGRESSMAN JAMES G. MAGUIRE.
"The Sherman act has been of no benefit to California. The government should never interfere with the people's exchanges or with the media of exchange. The only function of the Government should be to stamp on gold and silver the weight and fineness of each. To this end the mints should be always open to the free coinage of gold and silver, leaving the laws of trade and the contracts of the people to determine how their values shall compare."

"For its own purpose the government should issue treasury notes to the extent of the annual revenue." The answers of fifty-nine editors of newspapers in various parts of the state are given in the Examiner. Forty-six favor the remonetization of silver and answer the question in the affirmative, while only thirteen are for the gold standard.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEVADA'S EXHIBIT.

It is a Fine Display and Attracts Great Attention.
From the Chicago Dispatch.

Hon. J. A. Yerington, chairman of the Nevada state board of world's fair commission, has been one of the busiest men in Chicago during the past few weeks, and now has the satisfaction of seeing his state occupying a prominent place among the exhibitors of the world's fair. The state of Nevada was rather slow in getting to the fair with its displays, and for a time it was feared she had deserted the enterprise. Towards the end of April, however, Mr. Yerington arrived upon the scene and in his wake came a collection of exhibits that bid fair to prove dangerous competitors in their respective departments. Since then, Mr. Yerington has labored incessantly in arranging the different exhibits and those who have visited the Nevada booths in the mines, agricultural and ethnological buildings are ready to admit of the success of his efforts.

Most prominent among the state's exhibits in the agricultural building are the magnificent displays of grapes, figs and almonds. The rich wheat and other cereals cause much comment, as few people have ever credited Nevada with being an agricultural state.

"You see we can raise grain as well as Illinois and figs and grapes as well as California," said commissioner Yerington to a reporter for the Dispatch.

"If the people would only believe that our farming lands can produce a value of $225 to an acre and that homes are cheap, there would be more immigration to our state," he continued.

"But your state is all sand and mines," ventured the reporter.

"That is an entirely mistaken idea," said the gentleman from Nevada.

"Lincoln, Washoe, Douglas, Humboldt and Elko counties are drained by the Truckee, Carson, Humboldt, Colorado and Muddy rivers as well as dozens of minor rivers and creeks. Aside from these we have mile after mile of canals and dams, which render irrigation easy. D. Bonellis, at Riverville, Lincoln county, shows what can be raised in the way of fruit, while our wheat display is among the best at the fair."

"How is your state affected by the silver question?" was asked.

"The demonetization of silver will ruin us the same as it will ruin the other silver states. We only have a population of 47,000 and to-day over $150,000,000 worth of mining property is lying practically idle. Nevada produces much silver, but, contrary to general belief, it also produces a great deal of gold. In proportion gold is 40 per cent of the mine production. Should silver suffer our gold mines will suffer also, as the miner must have some other value in order to produce his gold. With silver at a fair value and gold at a fixed valuation Nevada is a prosperous state, and then give us immigrants, not miners, but farmers who build their homes, our state will be equal to any in the Union. Our farmers cannot yet compete against California for the eastern markets, but with a healthy mining interest to nourish our home production all would be well in a very short time."

Mr. Yerington is also the representative of the Nevada Silver League, and will speak at the silver convention next week.

The almonds, figs and grapes in the Nevada exhibit, received a few days ago, is the first fruit to be shipped by any state west of the Rocky mountains.

D. J. Sullivan, proprietor of the Virginia Hotel, has secured the services of a first-class white cook and has commenced taking boarders. Everything in the kitchen and dining-room, as well as the whole house, is brand new, and the excellence of the meals that Mr. Sullivan proposes setting before his patrons will undoubtedly hold the custom of those who give them a trial. jy28w1

"August Flower"

What is it for?
This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is August Flower for?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brims. We believe August Flower cures. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

STORIES ABOUT MEN.

THE PART PLAYED BY ANECDOTES OF BIG MEN IN HISTORY.

Many Times an Incident Interesting in Itself is Inharmonious Because it May Not Be Characteristic of the Man About Whom the Story is Told.

There is a story going the rounds of the newspapers to the effect that during the siege of Petersburg General Lee turned aside from the grave duties and dangers of his position to pick up and replace on the limb of a tree a nest full of young birds that had been knocked down by a Federal shell. A similar story has been told of Lincoln to illustrate his tenderness of heart, and the probability is that the fable originated away back in the early days of civilization. It is mostly so with the anecdotes which figure in the history of great men and events. When they are not borrowed from the ancients and handed down through successive generations, they are manufactured by skillful writers to suit particular characters and occasions. We may be quite sure that General Lee never paused in the course of a battle to look after distressed birds. He was a man of fine feeling undoubtedly, but it does not follow that he was in the habit of making himself sentimentally absurd.

The story, in short, is not characteristic, and so it has no historical value. A distinguished man's fame is harmed rather than helped when he is thus represented as manifesting himself in an illogical and improbable manner. It would be easy to believe of Lee that he stooped to ease the pain of a wounded soldier or that he gave his rations to a hungry prisoner, but it is not reasonable to suppose that his instinct of sympathy betrayed him into the childish act which this story attributes to him. And thus it is with hundreds of other anecdotes that are used to impart an enlivening flavor to the dreariness of history.

The anecdote is a desirable thing in works which are intended to convey a vivid impression of historical occurrences or celebrated personalities, but it needs to be employed judiciously and with a rational sense of fitness. There is no advantage gained when such matter is introduced for the mere purpose of giving variety where there would otherwise be monotony. The anecdote's prosperity lies in its adaptability to the character that is being portrayed and its service as a striking illustration of an individual trait or tendency. We often get a better idea of a man from some simple story of his denoting tastes or caprices than from the laborious accounts of his important proceedings, but the story must be carefully adjusted to the logic of the man's life and the salient facts of his career, or its intention will be defeated.

The best historians and biographers understand this and are accordingly as painstaking and solicitous in the case of an anecdote as in that of a problem of serious interest. They do not tell stories of that sort for superficial effect or to quicken the reader's flagging attention, but to emphasize a given characteristic and to fill a practical want in the way of description or analysis. The anecdote supplements and illuminates the heavier features of the narrative. It is used with discrimination and not in a light and promiscuous manner. The picture would not be complete without it. The character would be dim and distant in the absence of such aid to the appreciation of governing motives and peculiarities.

It is not really essential that anecdotes thus employed shall be literally true. Some of the best of them are pure inventions, which have the rare merit of being well imagined. A story that has a reasonable degree of probability and that can be credited consistently with what is known of the general qualities of a character is useful even when it is not positively accurate. There are some fictions of that kind which are worth more in their way than many ponderous and tiresome facts. All of the great figures in history owe something to these convenient fables. They are identified with certain anecdotes that keep them in easy remembrance and that enable us to make close acquaintance with them. Day the anecdotes must have the virtue of plausibility, or they will not answer the purpose.

Unless they represent things which might have happened without contradiction of the character to which they relate there is no justification for them, and they are a reproach to the writer who uses them as well as a damage to the man whom they are designed to benefit. The philosophy of the matter is all contained in the statement that great men, like small ones, are expected to be true to the laws of their lives. Anecdotes which come within this rule are historically valuable, whether strictly true or only products of fancy, and those which fall outside of it are silly and mischievous, regardless of the reputation of the author or the purpose of the deception. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat

Nature's Protection For Unripe Fruit. For protection from the animal world immature fruits have developed a number of interesting devices. Almost universally "green" fruits so harmonize with surrounding color as to escape detection. In fact, the hazel nut is enveloped in a leafy coat which renders it inconspicuous. The nutritious albumen of the seed is often fortified by such impenetrable shells as those of the cocoon and others. Perhaps there is a formidable armament of prickles, as in the chestnut, or stinging hairs, as is the case with some pods.

Characteristic of immature fruits are disagreeable taste and consistence. Compare an unripe peach, sour and stringy, with the same fruit in its luscious maturity. But all these contrivances fail to repel certain enemies of growing fruits. The apple's insipidness, toughness and sourness are of little avail against the young progeny of the genus homo.—J. W. Folsom in Popular Science Monthly.

BALD HEADS!

What is the condition of yours? Is your hair dry, harsh, brittle? Does it split at the ends? Has it a lifeless appearance? Does it fall out when combed or brushed? Is it full of dandruff? Does your scalp itch? Is it dry or in a heated condition? If these are some of your symptoms be warned in time or you will become bald.

Skookum Root Hair Grower

is what you need. Its production is not an accident, but the result of scientific research. Knowledge of the diseases of the hair and scalp led to the discovery of how to treat them. "Skookum" contains neither mercury nor arsenic. It is not a dye, but a deliciously cooling and refreshing tonic. By stimulating the follicles, it stops falling hair, cures dandruff and grows hair a bold head.

Keep the scalp clean, healthy, and free from irritating eruptions, by the use of Skookum Root Soap. It destroys parasitic insects, which feed on and destroy the hair.

Your druggist cannot supply you and direct to us, and we will send you a sample, on receipt of price. Grower, 1410 Broadway, New York, N. Y. For Jar 6 for $2.50.

AL WHITE.

The Old, Sad Story.

One afternoon last week there was a private funeral service in a fine mansion situated on an uptown street in Portland, Me. The funeral procession consisted of a single landau and a hearse. Passersby looked at the pathetic little cortege as it came out of the gravelled driveway from the rear door of the stately dwelling and lightly remarked, "One of the help is dead."

None of the papers in their mortuary column furnished a clue to the identity of the dead. Only the heartbroken father, the mother, and sisters knew the old, sad story which for ages bards have sung. It was indeed an awful lesson. Decades ago the trite saying was penned, "There are sermons in stones, and good in everything," and that truism is as potent today as it was then.

None knew and few guessed that the poor, frail frame that was on its last long journey was once the body of a young woman who, seven years ago, had fashionable Portland at her feet, was courted and petted by all and was allowed every pleasure that mind could invent or money procure except freedom.

She longed for New York. The nightingale was caged, and she longed for freedom. She burst the tiny, woven golden chains of love and became as the moth to the candle.

Three years on Fifth avenue, then to Broadway, then in the human maelstrom toward the Battery, then that haven of rest—home.

Last of all, Calvary.—Exchange.

WHY HOOD'S? Because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best, most reliable and accomplishes the greatest cures. HOOD'S CURES

Parasitism and Royalty. The royal family of England is said to be the most money loving of the princely blood of Europe. The queen has accumulated a vast fortune from her savings, and she pays her servants less than they can get in any first class hotel. Her daughter, the Princess Louise, inherits this parasitism and spirit, and just now the royal press of London is making an outcry because the princess competed with other sculptors for a statue to the queen and got the contract through royal influence. The princess charged full price for the work—$2,500—and exacted $500 in advance. The poorer sculptors had to stand aside. The Princess of Wales, however, does not inherit the thrifty instinct. He wears 1,000 pairs of gloves a year and buys them all from Denmark instead of encouraging the home industry.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Quakers Who Could and Did Fight. A lay harvest in the heart of the city is the unusual sight that presented itself to people passing the old "Fighting Quakers" burying ground on Fifth street south of Locust last week. The Society of Free Friends, as they call themselves, is a new sect, as the general society has broadened to meet their views, and no burials have been made in the ground for years. During the civil war many Union soldiers who died in the hospitals of this city were given a resting place alongside the "Fighting Quakers" of the Revolution.—Philadelphia Record.

Dr. J. H. Hodge, who recently died in Ireland at the age of 83, had 48 children, 230 grandchildren and 1,914 great-grandchildren. He had been married seven times.

In Glass. That's the way Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets come. And it's a more important point than you think. It keeps them always fresh and reliable, unlike the ordinary pill in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes.

They're put up in a better way and they act in a better way, than the huge old-fashioned pills. No gripping, no violence, no reaction afterward that sometimes leaves you worse off than before. In that way they cure permanently. Sick Headache, Biliousness, Indigestion, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels, are prevented relieved and cured.

They're tiny, sugar-coated granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts—the smallest in size, the easiest to take, and the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

There's nothing likely to be just as good.
